

New LAV Variant for Light Forces

General Dynamics was to begin delivering this new vehicle, the LAV-AD, to Marine light armor units this fall. The Blazer turret includes a forward-looking infrared targeting sight, a laser rangefinder, and the option of employing either Stinger missiles or the rapid-fire GAU-12/U 25mm Gatling gun. The Marines are buying 17 of these systems for their extensive LAV fleet.